The Culmers in explaining their bid assured the board that they could put in the necessary stopes in their quarry to get out enough material to pave the eight blocks in the weeks, and thought that inasmuch as there was but $4,000 between them the heard should encourage home material by a warding the contract to them, and to keep all the money at home. They also said that they had expended $10,000 in building a switch to their quarries, and were in better position to furnish the curbing and the stone blocks than any other company.

Mr. Grimth, of Houlahan, Griffith & Morris, said that his commany had purchased a complete plant from Remington and were in position to complete the work according to the specifications.

The other firms were not represented at the meeting and stood by their bids.

LOVELY CASTELLA SPRINGS. The great success of the Odd Fellows and other excursions given this year to Castella Springs, have decided the Typographical Union to celebrate Labor Day, September 5, by giving a grand excursion to this favorite resort. PLAINT OF THE BANKERS.

Some Testimony Taken and the Hearing Contlaued Until Tomorrow. The committee of the city council, to whom the bankers' taxation case was resent thom. The performance opened at Messra. Sutherland and Critchlow to represent thom. The performance opened at 7:45, when Frank Knox, of the Bank of the Republic, was sworn by Chairman Horn and a sweeping array of cross-questions were put as to the assats of this bank and what his kick was about.

M. E. Gummings, of the Utah Commercial and Savings, next stepped up to the bar and was followed by E. A. Smith, of the Deseret Savings, S. F. Waiker, of the Bank of Commerce, H. S. Young, of the Deseret National and George M. Cannon, of the Zion's Savings.

The object of the inquisition on the part of the city fathers seemed to be to learn whether Fred J. Leonard had att nded to his business all right or not; what the banks thought the proportion of 1 assessments made to actual valuations and how much the city owed on mortkages. Gorge M. Cannon thought $2,000,000 or $3,000,000.

Mr. Smith had provided himself with a list of properties as assessed, actual valuation and sold. This was to prove wherein Mr. Leonard had only assessed 60 to 70 percent, where the banks were always charged 100 per coot, and often even more. This was the curden of all the bankers and was was wherein the relief was asked.

cent where the banks were always charged 100 per cent, and often even more. This was the burden of all the bankers and was was wherein the relief was asked. It was found that all the banks were not represented, so Judge Sutherland asked that the committee accept the sworn affidacits of the absentees, which he would have at any time the committee called for them. After some discussion this was acceded to, and Widneaday evening at 7:30 decided on to settle the matter.
